Lawrence, Kansas

You are invited!

Please join us for a community conversation hosted by Community Children's Center and facilitated by the University of Kansas Center for Public Partnerships and Research.

Through stories and data from Kansas families, we will come together to find shared meaning in our experiences and explore what they reveal about our community. Together, we will:

- ▶ understand common challenges families face in our community
- ▶ generate ideas to strengthen family support and well-being

What is a community conversation?

Joined by members of the local community, we explore our shared community perspectives. By making sense of family experiences together, we can identify opportunities and create real solutions that strengthen family and community well-being. Ideas generated from our conversations will be shared with participants and with state leaders to inspire action.
